CONFERENCE ON GeM HELD AT KOHIMA

A conference on Government e-Marketplace (GeM) under the theme 'Governance for Growth' was held at Hotel Japfu, Kohima on 31st January 2022. The conference was organized by the Indian Chamber of Commerce, and attended by entrepreneurs from across the State.

One stop Government e-Market(GeM) Place is a platform where common user goods and services can be procured. GeM aims to transform the way in which procurement of goods and services is done by the government ministries and departments.

Commissioner & Secretary, Department of Industries & Commerce, Nagaland, Kekhrievor Kevichusa, IPoS said that for central government, purchase from GeM is compulsory but it is not yet compulsory in Nagaland. It is still at a level of on boarding sellers and departments as buyers. He stated that more sensitization is needed on GeM not just for the Government but for hand holding the prospective sellers also.

Kekhrievor said that GeM came about because earlier the Central Government faced a lot of problem in purchasing from DGS&D due to artificial or unrealistic prices, service delivery and after sale services. In GeM after sale service is now made easy as sellers from bigger cities have now tied up with local vendors who can assist them. He pointed out that this is one issue which the State will face if it goes for large scale buying, so the Government is trying to bring local sellers on board first and buy local also.

Kekhrievor said that through GeM, the Department of Industries & Commerce is also interested in the handloom and handicraft sector to access the market beyond Nagaland without having a retail store in other parts of India. He called on the local entrepreneurs and government departments to avail this opportunity to sell local and buy local, and requested the ICC for help and support in registration of local entrepreneurs.

Chief Executive Officer, Investment & Development Authority of Nagaland (IDAN), Alemtemshi Jamir, IAS (Retd.) emphasizing on the role and scale that e-commerce will play in the growth of economy, pointed out that at present seven of the top ten world's richest people are dealing in e-commerce business. He lamented that majority of the people are not aware of the implication or opportunities of e-commerce, and encouraged the entrepreneurs to register in GeM.

Jamir said that Yellow Chain was set up by IDAN for small business to sell their services and goods, but at present miniscule number (around 400-500) have registered. He shared that some business are doing quite well in Yellow Chain and added it can become bigger when everyone is involved. He further exhorted the young entrepreneurs to be more aware, efficient, absorptive, receptive and adaptive to the rapid changes taking place in the market economy.

Joint Director, MSME Development Institute, Dimapur, Ministry of MSME, Government of India, Tali Longchar, IEDS explained the importance of registering in GeM, and numerous corporations and organisations also gave virtual presentations on GeM.

He is of the view that many people left their villages to venture out abandoning traditional means of living and sometimes fail to acquire urban living standards, and become anti-social creating problems for the general masses. We need a revival in such social migrations; we need to focus on traditional way of living in villages or we shall focus strictly in education and technical sectors so that there will be social balance, he added.

session is most appropriate and befitting for the present situation of Nagaland in all fields.

To bring healing to our society, he urged the young people to focus and work as 'We' not 'I', not in tribal or clan or family lines, but as a community, together as Nagas, he added.

While explaining that most of the government schemes are now routed through direct benefit schemes and banking, Kikheto said the State Government is also seeking to approve and pass the Securitization and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Securities Interest Act, 2002 (SARFAESI Act, 2002) to enable young educated unemployed to avail schemes and loans, etc. and become entrepreneurs for economic development and sustenance. He urged the young educated unemployed to not only strive to get government jobs alone, but to identify their own strengths and the schemes or opportunities available and suitable for them and work towards availing assistance from the Government and become successful entrepreneurs.

Not only in entrepreneurship, but Kikheto also stressed that the young people can be agents to introduce modern farming methods in the rural areas and identify areas within their village cluster with water availability for settled farming in the model of Naga Integrated Settled Farming (NISF) which would incorporate modern technologies, soil testing, etc. with traditional farming, and will include comprehensive inclusive farming – agriculture, horticulture, fisheries, sericulture, dairy and piggery, goatery, etc. He stated that the State Government will soon come up with weather advisory to help the farmers be updated on weather conditions, which will help them in preparing to face any changes in weather.

Kikheto urged the youth to start planning a road map for a new Nagaland, where there is no division or 'isms,' where people do what is right and just, where there is humility and respect, where clean elections happen, and where everyone works to eat.
