LAUNCHING OF A CHATBOT FOR SPECIFIC LEARNING DISABILITIES (SLDs)

The Nagaland Board of School Education (NBSE) is launching a chatbot, an online tool, for Specific Learning Disabilities (SLDs) on its website in partnership with ChangeInkk Foundation in Delhi. The chatbot can be accessed at <https://nbsenl.edu.in> and will help parents and teachers with answers to commonly asked questions on SLDs.

In India, both the New Education Policy 2020 (NEP 2020) & the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (RPwD) Act 2016 recognize SLDs and stress the importance of creating inclusive education for this population. The RPwD Act 2016 defines inclusive education as a 'system of education wherein students with and without disabilities learn together and the system of teaching and learning is suitably adapted to meet the learning needs of different types of students with disabilities.' NBSE is committed to supporting individuals with disabilities to receive the right accommodations for various state-conducted examinations. They have already issued a notification elucidating guidelines on accommodations and requirements to include students with SLDs at the school level, available at <https://nbsenl.edu.in/cms/document/174/notifications>

SLDs recognize the differences in the way people's brain function, process information, and learn. They include Dyslexia, Dyscalculia, Dysgraphia, along with Dyspraxia. Individuals with SLDs have average or above average IQs, but struggle with processing language, spoken or written, that may manifest itself as difficulty to comprehend, speak, read, write, spell, or do mathematical calculations. Nearly 5-15% of children struggle with SLDs in India. The actual extent is not known, due to lack of awareness and low levels of formal diagnosis (especially in local languages) in our country. As per global estimates, it could be as high as 1 in 5 students. This means that over 150 million individuals including 35 million school-aged children in India are affected by SLDs.

ChangeInkk Foundation is a nonprofit committed to creating pathways of success for neurodiverse individuals from cradle to career, in particular, those with SLDs by enabling an inclusive ecosystem. It is doing the path-breaking work of bridging the massive awareness gap to support people with SLDs in India.

NBSE INFORMS INSTITUTIONS TO MAXIMISE ENROLMENT OF YOUNG ELECTORS

The Nagaland Board of School Education has informed that the Election Commission of India has issued instructions to maximize the enrolment of young/prospective electors from the campuses through active participation of educational institutions, the details of which are given below:

1. The electoral rolls are prepared and revised, subject to the overall superintendence, direction, and control of the Election Commission of India under Article 324 of the Constitution, in accordance with the provisions of the Representation of Peoples Act, 1950, and Registration of Electors Rules, 1960.
2. The Election Commission of India has always been committed to conducting a free, fair, and inclusive election, for which an error-free and updated electoral roll is a prerequisite. The electoral roll is updated regularly through the Annual Summary Revision and continuous updation, wherein special focus is given to the registration of new/prospective electors, who are/would be eligible for registration in the electoral roll.
3. Earlier, the registration in electoral roll was done with respect to one qualifying date, i.e. 1st January of the coming year. However, with the recent change in the registration process, provision of four qualifying dates has been introduced, i.e., 1st January, 1st April, 1st July and 1st October of the year in which the final publication of the electoral roll is done. The said provisions have enabled more prospective electors to submit advance applications/claims for registration in Form-6, upon the draft publication of the electoral roll, usually done in November every year.
4. The registration of new/prospective electors has always been a challenging task, and in spite of the Commission's consistent efforts for encouraging and increasing enrolment in the 18-19 age group, there has always been a shortfall in the registration number. As the majority of such prospective electors are part of the educational institutes, the Commission feels that registration of young/prospective electors can be maximized through active participation of educational institutions by providing:
 - (a) A dedicated space on institution's websites where a link for 'registration of new voters' along with awareness slogans may be given, to encourage the students for their registration as electors; this link would direct the applicant to Form-6 'Registration of New Voter' on NVSP portal.
 - (b) A field embedded towards the end of the registration/examination form with the tagline 'application form to be a new voter.' A click on the same would direct the applicant to Form-6 'Registration of New Voter' on the NVSP portal, by hyperlinking the tagline with the portal.

All the Heads of Institutions have been requested to take note and facilitate prospective students to register in the electoral roll.

Nagaland has shared the responsibility to make SDGs a reality for the State, the country, and the world, as a whole.

Christmas is the most wonderful time of the year but not the most environmentally friendly. 'Nagaland for Green Christmas' is an endeavour to continue the effort towards a state-wide sustainable and environment-friendly Christmas to reduce carbon emissions. From the type of decorations we buy to the food we eat, everything – no matter how big or small – can make a huge difference. Some of the simple and effective ways of having a greener Christmas would be avoiding plastics, decorating eco-friendly Christmas trees, DIY decorations, switching to LED lights, gifting reusable essentials, sending e-cards, buying ethically, composting the leftovers, connecting to nature, and suchlike. The key is to be mindful and incorporate small changes and considerations into our normal routine - think about the items we buy, how we use them, and how we dispose of them as well.

The Government of Nagaland through the SDGCC has been mobilizing individuals, communities, departments, institutions, and agencies, and to take action for the achievement of the SDGs, whilst building coalitions across communities and societies at the local level. This is yet another effort towards achieving the SDG Vision 2030.

This is where the 'HIPFEST,' one of the events of the Hornbill Festival, plays a vital role in presenting our picturesque State and its beautiful people to tourists and visitors from different parts of the world without the need to physically travel to every part of the State.

'HIPFEST' jointly organized by Portrait Enterprises and the Department of Information & Public Relations is a photography competition-cum-exhibition under the theme 'Colours of Nagaland.' WITH LOVE FROM POLAND (A DIPR Feature by Morotsung Longchar, IA)

Jan Skwara, the photographer from Poland taking portraits during the Hornbill Festival 2022 at Naga Heritage Village, Kisama.

The Hornbill Festival attracts tourists of all kinds from all over the world and most of them are usually simple travel enthusiasts who attend to enjoy the sights and sounds that Hornbill Festival has to offer. However, a small portion of the tourists who come to the Hornbill Festival are professionals in various fields who come with a specific purpose and look forward to accomplishing something worthwhile during their visit to the festival. The vibrancy and the richness of our cultural heritage that is on show during the Festival is the main attraction and has been the subject of intrigue for many of these tourists.

The 2022 edition of the Hornbill Festival saw an encouraging turnout of international tourists, most of whom have come simply to get a glimpse of the cultural extravaganza that is unique to Nagaland alone. However, a certain gentleman from Poland attended the Hornbill Festival 2022 with a rather purposeful objective in mind. The gentleman in question is Jan Skwara, a documentary and travel photographer from Poland. Jan Skwara is a renowned photographer whose works have won multiple awards like Travel Photographer of the Year, National Geographic Grand Photography, Leica Street Photography, and Alamy Photo Competition, and has also won the Frames from the World Poland, three times. His works have also been featured in many renowned publications like National Geographic Poland, Digital Camera, The Sun, and The Mirror.

What sets Jan Skwara apart from the hundreds of travel photographers that come to the Hornbill Festival every year is his purpose of coming to Nagaland. Jan Skwara is on a mission to document vanishing cultures using historic techniques and antique equipment to ensure that the essence of these cultures which have their roots in the past are not lost by using modern technology. Jan takes his photographs using the age-old 'wet plate collodion' process which was invented in 1851, by Frederic Archer and is one of the oldest photography techniques. He also uses a 70-year-old large-format camera for capturing his photographs.

The Department of Information & Public Relations co-ordinated with Jan Skwara during his stay in Nagaland and provided logistical help by providing space for him to set up his dark room at the Naga Heritage Village, Kisama where he has been documenting our Naga culture. Talking about the Hornbill Festival, Jan said that he enjoyed being here at the Festival and mentioned that it was a great idea to bring all the tribes together in one place to showcase the diverse culture and traditions to the thousands of tourists who have come to witness the Hornbill Festival. He further stressed that the Festival is an excellent way of preserving Naga culture which in time would vanish if steps are not taken to preserve it. He also said that for him as a photographer and a tourist, it was a good opportunity to learn something new and get to know more about the Naga people and their rich culture and to talk to the local people and share experiences. He lastly mentioned that he enjoyed the Naga cuisine the most out of all his experiences in the State.

The Hornbill Festival despite everything has been successful in one thing and that is showcasing our rich culture and traditions in all their glory for the world to see and experience. Jan Skwara is one of many who will take back with him an experience that only our Naga people can provide and through his works and photographs more people around the world will come to know about our Nagaland, our beautiful landscape, our hospitable and kind-hearted people and most importantly our unique and rich cultural heritage.
